

WITNESS BARES SECRET OF KLAN OUTRAGE

LEGISLATORS ARE IN MADISON FOR SESSION OPENING INTEREST CENTERS ON CONTROL OF UPPER HOUSE.
CAUCUS TUESDAY
Socialists Hold Balance of Power; Will Blaine Use It, Is Query.

Madison.—Legislators again were stamping on Wisconsin's principal political ground Tuesday as they assembled for the 55th session of the state legislature which convenes here at noon Wednesday. They already have stirred up atmosphere of politics that always pervades the capital and which reaches the point of saturation during a legislature.
Conferences of Blaine-La Follette partisans and of the opposition forces within the Republican party are on the day's schedule of events, which will not be concluded until a late hour Tuesday night. Most of the discussion concerning these scheduled happenings centers around the control of the state senate, to be decided at tonight's caucus.

Senators Are Busy.
Practically all of the legislators were in the city Tuesday morning. Each one is here with a pocket full of bills and a firm belief that the work of the session can be completed within four months, providing everybody is willing to pay close attention to the job at hand.
The senators turned directly to business. Administration members of the upper house were scheduled to hold a second of their conferences to determine their course of action when organization of the senate is undertaken. The anti-administration forces plan to organize in the senate in an effort to control the caucus, and through this control prevent organization of the upper house by the Blaine men.

Socialists Offer Watchdog.
It is believed the conference of administration supporters will determine whether these senators will go into caucus dependent for control on the vote of one doubtful member or accept the socialist offer to help maintain control of the senate. The opinion is general that unless all other means fail, the governor's forces will not bolt the Republican caucus and thus break the senate's control.

Van Brocklin Is Witness
Charles City, Ia.—With the defense already started on its attack on the story told by Elmer Van Brocklin of the killing of his brother and sister-in-law, Charles and Irene Van Brocklin, the state's star witness returned to the state capital Tuesday to face further questioning at the hands of William S. Hart, chief defender of B. F. Kneeskern, on trial for the crimes.
By bringing out alleged discrepancies between Van Brocklin's testimony now and that at the time of the preliminary hearing, and also the first trial, at which Kneeskern was found guilty, Attorney Hart sought to place the blame for the crime on the witness.

Daugherty Cleared by Committee Washington.—Attorney General Daugherty was given a clean bill of health Tuesday by the house judiciary committee, which investigated the impeachment charges brought against him by Representative Keller, republican, Minnesota.

Woman "Raffles" Believed to Be Implicated in Big Theft

Mrs. Irene Mamlock Schoellkopf, victim of $520,000 jewel robbery by "drugs suit" bandits.

One of the witnesses to the robbery of Mrs. Irene Schoellkopf, young and beautiful wife of a millionaire leather manufacturer who was robbed while attending a watch party at the home of Frank Carmen, a decorator in New York, has told the story of the taking of the $520,000 in jewels. A mysterious and beautiful woman it is now claimed took part and helped to strip the bracelets and rings from the arms of Mrs. Schoellkopf in a no-gentle manner. The robbery was according to the highest type of fiction and carried out thoroughly. Mrs. Schoellkopf was levied down stairs into another room and there the robber gang did the work. Carmen has been arrested but the victim says she does not believe him guilty of any part in the affair.

Fight Looms Over New Traffic Move
First rumblings of what promises to develop into a determined and concerted effort on the part of business men and others to kill the proposed ordinance eliminating half and complete turns at Academy and Main streets, which was introduced at a council meeting Monday night, when the measure was brought up for final passage. The ordinance, which would winnow a delay of two weeks, failed to secure any open support of councilmen and it appears probable that the measure will go through unless the business men show enough interest to appear before the council and fight it.

"Force Is Force Whatever Its Guise"

GERMANY IN PROTEST

Berlin.—"Force remains force—whatever its guise." This declaration was made Tuesday by William Cuno, the chancellor, in connection with the reported intention of France to extend her military occupation into the Ruhr region of Germany. The chancellor added that Germany would regard the application of force as a breach of the Versailles treaty and as "the use of might against a defenseless people."
The German government, for the time being, is wholly stressing the legal aspects of France's attitude as based on her treaty prerogatives, and has not yet indicated the line of action it purposes to adopt in the event the French invade the Ruhr.
"France," continued Herr Cuno, "is trying to cloak her contemplated action with the appearance of justice, in that she spreads sanctions and pledges which are supposed to have basis in the stipulations of the Versailles treaty. Yet, even as monstrous as this instrument is, it does not go so far as to permit the allies optional impingement upon German sovereignty or willful encroachment on German territory."
"As a pledge to their demands under the treaty, or as security for payments, the allies are occupying the Rhineland for a specific period, thus holding a guarantee which is more secure and more crushing in its final working out than any yet incorporated in any peace treaty between civilized peoples. If France on her own responsibility fails to recognize the limitations established by the agreement governing the rights of occupation, or if she actually proceeds to impinge on Rhineland territory outside the established zone of occupation, then such procedure passes to a more serious level of her treaty privileges and becomes a violent breach of the peace against a defenseless people."

KLAN WORE BLACK MASKS FOR NIGHT RAIDS, TESTIMONY

CHARTER MEMBER NAMES LOCAL LEADER OF KU KLUX.
WORD WAS FINAL
Workings of Invisible Empire Bared by Former Klansman at Open Hearing.

Bastrop, La.—J. M. Norcross, who declared himself a charter member of the Moorhouse parish organization of the Ku Klux Klan, asserted on the witness stand at the open hearing Tuesday of the masked band depredations in Moorhouse that the black mask was used by members of the Moorhouse Klan when they set out on marauding raids at night.
"When the Klan went out on raiding trips they wore the black masks, but when they met in the lodge rooms they wore the white ones," Norcross told the jury. General Cocco, who was conducting the examination.
"Who was the leader of the Klan, the grand cyclops or whatever they called him?" asked Mr. Cocco.
"Captain Skipwith; we called him the president."
"Who was the king of this community of this parish? His word was final, was it not?" asked the attorney general.
"Yes sir."
"Was the result of all this raiding? Wasn't the parish being controlled by a super-government?"
"It caused all kinds of trouble. The people were all torn up. It wasn't what we called invisible government, but it sure was a change in government."
"Is a matter of fact, Captain Skipwith, did you in session failed to bring indictments, would, meaning the Klan. After I got out of the Klan they sent me a bunch of money from the Arkansas line. I had orders to stop these men and tell them to cross the line and stay across. They did not know you had quit them?"
"I reckon not."
"McKoon Also 'Honored'"
As to the inner workings of the Klan, the witness testified that he had been captain by Skipwith, and "Dr. McKoon was likewise honored."
"Who did you quit the Klan? Was it because they wore black masks?"
"Yes sir, but I did not like any part of it."
"You mean the vigilantes?"
"Yes, they went around the country and scared the hell out of reported to us what was going on."
"Wasn't men ordered to leave their homes? Weren't others told to clean up their houses?"
"Yes sir."
"Wasn't these orders executed by direction of the president, Captain Skipwith?"
"Yes sir."
"Wasn't it this caused by parish officials not enforcing the law?"
"Yes sir."
"Wasn't these Klansmen?"
"As a matter of fact, the sheriff and other officials of this parish are members of the Klan?"
"Was sir."
"Even members of the grand jury then in session were members, were they not?"
"Yes sir."
"I think this investigation has the support of the better element of the community," said Mr. Cocco. "I"

Pat's Win, Mary's Lose in Inter-State Catholic Starts

LOOP IS OPENED WITH FAST WORK IN TWO CITIES

INTERSTATE LEAGUE. W. L. Pat. St. Pat's, Janesville ..... 1 0 1000 St. James, Rockford ..... 1 0 1000 St. Mary's, Rockford ..... 1 0 1000 St. Mary's, Janesville ..... 1 0 1000

Janesville's debut in the newly formed Catholic church basketball league was visited with a split Monday night. The St. Patrick's team of this city smothered the Paddies of Rockford, 21 to 13, while St. Mary's of Janesville went down before St. James' of Rockford at that city, 21 to 22.

The local Pat's won on snappy team work, short passes and by keeping a man down close to the basket. They held Rockford back down the floor with a combination of fast sticking defense, forcing the visitors to shoot from mid-floor.

Lots of the Rough. The battle here was "in the rough," shown by 12 personal fouls on the Janesville team and four on Rockford. Dan McElroy featured for the Bower city, sharing scoring honors with Don Dawson, until he was pulled in the fourth quarter with four personal fouls. Rockford played fair, but untidy game, though it shows promises if properly developed.

St. Mary's did not fare so well in their encounter at the Forest city. They were faced by two stalwart guards, Smith and Gaffney, who held the Janesville forwards and their assistants so far back that shots from the center of the floor were essential. A large part of the St. Mary's attempts at field baskets were forced from the side of the court near the end zones.

McDermott Is Star. Despite this, McDermott of the locals played a stellar game, rinning up five baskets, more than any other man in the game. Three of his flanks were from the center. Towns sent came in for a share of the glory, while Hickey, a substitute for Rockford St. James' stood out for the enemy.

JANESVILLE is one of the best shooting sections of the country for sharpshooters among men. This is due to the excellent work of the Janesville Rifle club during the past few years. Last year the club was anxious to put a rifle club started at the local high school but action was withheld until conditions became better. Now that the new prep building is nearing completion, how about organizing a club among the boys?

AND steps should not stop with the boys. The ladies should find an interest in the game of peppering the target. Girls all over the country are taking it up, until now the gentler sex is doing such wonderful work that they are classed on the heels of some of the male experts.

SAYS one writer in commenting on rifle shooting: "It is no easy task to become a crack rifle shot. You must have steady nerves, cool, keen judgment, poise, and a great deal of determination. This makes a first class argument on the value of rifle shooting to the young among both boys and girls, for all these qualities are essential to success in life. To learn them while having a good time is one of the easiest and finest methods known before the reason for boasting shooting."

WHAT are the girls of the nation doing in this branch? Six girls at the University of Michigan have won a record of 6000 points with regulation rifles at 200 yards. Miss Helen Stokes, sister of Walter Stokes, international champion, and Miss Lois Thompson, won the Astor silver loving cup in competition with high schools and colleges all over the country. Norma Lutz, of the University of Wisconsin, won the Astor silver loving cup in competition with high schools and colleges all over the country. Norma Lutz, of the University of Wisconsin, won the Astor silver loving cup in competition with high schools and colleges all over the country.

RIFLE shooting has been encouraged by the United States army, which backs the National Rifle association. In order to perfect crack shots throughout the nation. But the interest along educational lines has been so tremendously that schools have suddenly come to a realization that teaching the ability to draw a bead is a great help in making all around men and women. The Gazette will be glad to assist high schools in getting clubs started. Those interested should write to the sports editor.

Jake Schaefer, former champion, leads Roger Conth, France, in first block 182 ball line hillside. Milwaukee hockey team loses at Eveleth, Minn.

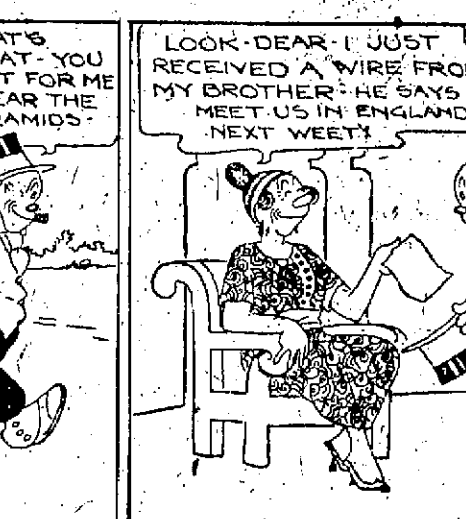

Scrum About Scrappers—Jack Sharkey, New York, outpointed Johnny Curran at Jersey City (12). Tom Gibbons, stopping off at Chicago, says he is assured of match with heavy champion, Dempsey, in a meet at Detroit next Monday. Pepper Martin, who peppered Bernstein at New York, was matched against Frank Edwards at New York. Dave Shade beats Jimmy Jones at Pittsburgh (10). Harry Greb relinquished by Pittsburgh boxing commission.

U. S. golf association to take up "pro" golfing situation.

Bracket Delinquent—Wisconsin beats Indiana, 17-10. Illinois trims Ohio State, 28-21. Notre Dame beaten by Butler, 24-14. St. Paul's, Janesville, beats St. Pat's, Rockford, 21-13, while St. Mary's, Janesville, loses to St. James', Rockford, 21-22. In Catholic league uppers—Marquette hopes out Augustana, 11-8. ## BRINGING UP FATHER

Cats at Fort Tuesday; Request Added Support

When the Black Cat basketball team of Janesville marches out upon the floor at the Lyric opera house in Fort Atkinson Tuesday night, they will engage in their thirteenth game of the season. Whether it will be a break for the better is to be seen.

The second game of the season for the Black Cats was with the Fort team at the Coliseum rink here. The Cats took the former service men well into camp at that time, 20 to 8, but when they played the Fort team on Sunday they were defeated by a score of 10 to 9.

The Cats are putting up a first class game. They are all boys known to the people of the city, and for that reason alone are deserving of the best backing. As things stand right now, according to the boys, they are not breaking even, despite the fact the hall is said to be donated for their use by "Charley" Vance.

Call for Support. Better teams could be brought here with ease were the players sure of getting larger attendance. This is not to say opponents so far have not won a few games, but it is to record that squads of greater prominence could be procured were the locals certain of being able to make their showing here a financial success.

The team makes a special appeal that when they play the Madison Cardinals here Thursday night, the biggest crowd of the season attend. The admission of 35 cents is the lowest charged by any basketball quintet in this section.

"AMATEUR IS TRUE ATHLETE"—CRANDALL

The following letter, addressed to the sports editor of the Gazette, speaks for itself. It comes from George H. Crandall, director of physical education at Milton college.

"I wish to take this opportunity to express to you my sincere appreciation of the support you have given to Milton college athletics through the columns of the sporting page of the Gazette. The increased interest of the public in athletics at Milton, which we have been pleased to note, especially this fall, is due in a very large measure to the publicity given through your page.

"Also, I feel that I am speaking the sentiment of many in this section who are particularly interested in the furthering of amateur athletics, when I say that we are anxious to have in your capacity one who understands the true purpose of athletics, and who uses the strength of the press to promote the athletic ideal, which sound statistics must be built."

Pin Boosters Meet on Tuesday for State Classic

Set as one of the most important meetings of the season, all bowlers of the city are requested to be at a special meeting to be held at the Chamber of Commerce at 8 p. m. Tuesday. Final business pertaining to sending teams to the state meet at Green Bay, Feb. 4, is to be completed.

The city league will take up the matter of division of money, the rules of the circuit, being that the expenses of each of the eight teams to the state meet shall be paid by the league.

The session is a booster one. Feb. 4 will be "Pinville Day" at the meet. With time drawing close, all squads planning to go are urged by the officers to have representatives at the meeting.

At its regular meeting Monday night, the Lakota club voted to send a team to the meet.

It was announced Tuesday that two Janesville teams will hold a preliminary Illinois meet at Rockford. They are the McNeil Hotel's and the Gazette's of the city league. The same teams will also appear in the national meet, which this year will be held at Milwaukee.

Milton Opens '23 With Platteville

(By Gazette Correspondent.) MILTON—Coach Randall's Milton college five will play its first game of the new year Tuesday night, when the Brown and Blue faces Platteville normal on the latter's floor. This contest was originally scheduled for Thursday.

Wisconsin School of Mines, which was to have furnished opposition for the local team on the day either preceding or following the Platteville normal game, was unable to arrange for a game on either date.

Crandall's original lineup, which lost several men shortly after the defeat by Marquette university last month, is now the same with the exception of Chadsey, who left school last year to play basketball with the Janesville Black Cats. In addition, C. Hill, who was injured in the School of Mines football game, and Senger, a new man, are available.

Other first-string men are McNitt, J. Sayre, Dillner, Kepler, Daland, Blackie and R. Hill.

ROCKFORD TO BUILD NEW FIELD FOR H. S.

Rockford—Kishwaukee park is to be purchased by the Rockford board of education and fitted up for an athletic field for the prep school. The old field is too small and is to be sold to a manufacturing firm for a factory site. There is so much likelihood that some additional land will be acquired thus permitting all kinds of athletic sports. Later it is proposed to erect a concrete stadium of large size, which will replace the present structure, thought to be too small. Interest in prep athletics has increased to such an extent that the need of larger facilities has become more pronounced of late years.

MINNESOTA HALTS OVER THE WOMAN'S BILL OF RIGHTS.

Taking a cue from the recent decision of the Wisconsin supreme court on the statute changing the common law position of women in the state and by removing disabilities under which she has existed for centuries, the Minnesota League of Women voters has determined to contest the bill of the same character introduced in the legislature of that state. In the decision of Justice Rosenberry, of Wisconsin, it was noted by every lawyer and many women as well, that the disabilities removed was in fact the removal of a protection.

At a meeting of the Women's Voters League held in Minneapolis the law was discussed and its weaknesses, which were so glossed over and scorned by the haste of the special advocates and lobbyists when the measure was before the Wisconsin legislature, were brought particularly to the attention of the members of the legislature and especially the two women members who were present.

The Gazette entered into a discussion of the Wisconsin bill and asked at the time if the "rights" granted would not eventually be found to be burdens. There is a possibility, we firmly believe, of framing a measure that will not only remove the disabilities which may be burdensome to women and which are the result of age-old recognition of the supremacy of the male, but at the same time protect women in all the desired rights and opportunities which have come to her under the Nineteenth amendment and are preserved by that constitutional enactment.

Mrs. Walter Thorpe, one of the women leaders of Minnesota, questioned the proposed blanket legislation for Minnesota, formulated on the Wisconsin plan and asked seriously whether under the bill, wives would have a legal claim for support and whether deserting husbands could be brought back and compelled to care for the families if the wives were not contributing equally to the support. This phase of the Wisconsin law has not yet been decided in the supreme court, but we may look for it as a defense in some case brought against a man for abandonment, a serious offense under the present statutes.

"It is obvious that woman cannot contribute equally to the support of a family and take care of the family at the same time," Mrs. Thorpe said to the League of Women voters. "In this case, what will happen if some men decide not to give support until their wives do likewise? One man might object to supporting his wife, and throw the whole question of support into the courts in every state in the union," she said.

There are so many "No Parking Here" signs that a pedestrian has a hard time to place his feet.

THE BRITISH DEBT COMMISSION

In an interview immediately upon landing, Stanley Baldwin of the British Debt Commission, has endeavored to show that while Great Britain is perfectly willing to pay all and severally what she owes in the way of war debt, and wants to pay, yet it is quite impossible to do so. He does not ask that we cancel the debt; Oh, no, but he naively argues that all the money was used here in buying war merchandise and supplies for the British and other armies. He says also that under the circumstances it is impossible to pay in goods. Not that Great Britain would not like to pay in that manner but we have put many stumbling blocks in the way of such an arrangement.

From the manner of Mr. Baldwin's conversation it may be understood that a long time will have to be given Britain to pay her war debt to us.
We have sold the bonds by which it was made possible for America to aid Britain and other allies. They went to the people of America. We are paying interest to these bondholders and eventually must pay the principal by taxation. In other words the bondholder will pay enough in taxes in one way or another to reimburse himself, both principal and interest.

Any argument that Great Britain may have and this statement by the head of the British delegation is the first official utterance we have had since the "feeler" of Sir Arthur Balfour last winter—against eventually paying the bill, either on the basis of inability or the injected altruistic one that all the money was spent in winning a war in which we were just as much concerned as she was, or that the money was expended here for materials, will not appeal to the taxpayer.

CONSOLIDATING RAILROADS

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—Legislation that will bring about the consolidation of the great railroad systems of the United States into still more compact units than even the greatest which now exist was one of the principal suggestions made by the president in his annual message to congress. The president's suggestion is regarded by railroad experts as a wise one and nearly everyone in the country, apparently, wants to see the thing done but the difficulty is to determine just how the consolidation shall be brought about.

Students of McGuffey's Fifth Reader and similar textbooks of that period will recall a sentimental poem which was much in request at the time when the rustle of bead portieres was heard in the land and the Swiss chalet was the latest thing in suburban architecture. It was called "Which Shall It Be?"

The poem told the story of a poor couple with a large family and of how difficult it was to feed so many. A rich relative expressed willingness to take one of the youngsters and rear him. At first the poor parents were delighted. Then came the time to decide, "Which Shall It Be?" The touching mid-Victorian sentiment of the poem brought out clearly that the parents could not bring themselves to part with a single child and turned down the offer, struggling along with their poverty as best they could.

Very much the same thing has happened in respect to American railroad systems.
The transportation act of 1920 provided that the railroad systems of the United States could consolidate into some 20 great mergers. The Interstate Commerce Commission was given authority to supervise the consolidations in a general way. Prof. William Z. Ripley, an eminent doctor of Harvard university, was retained by the commission to draw up a plan for the consolidation. He produced an ingenious plan, grouping the lines into a score of well-balanced systems.
Everything looked favorable to these consoli-dations which it was predicted would reduce operating costs and of a tendency to better service.
With the plan ready and with the permission given by congress in the transportation act, the plan has not yet been consummated because the railroads cannot agree among themselves as how they shall be merged. The railroads of the country have, in one sense, composed one great transportation family. They have been hard up and pressed for an expedient to better their condition.
Now comes this proposal which, in effect, would break the big family and send different parts in separate groups. The big railroad family is in the same position as the family in the story; it cannot decide what to do and, so far, has failed to do anything.

The sort of separations from which the parents in the ballad recoiled would be met in the carrying out of the Ripley plan. The parallel is not quite so tenderly sentimental as the poem because there seems more of a tendency to fight than to weep over the proposed separations.
An excellent example is furnished by the proposed grouping of the railroads running north and west out of Chicago. The Ripley plan would take the Great Northern railroad and the Northern Pacific and put them in one big system. It also would take the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and put them in one big system. Out of four of the biggest systems in the country, two big systems would be made by consolidations. Some short-line subsidiaries would be thrown in with each merger.

The Great Northern and the Northern Pacific have come before the Interstate Commerce Commission and protested bitterly against this arrangement. They declare that they are eager to consolidate but they want to consolidate into a system which also includes the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy. Through lengthy statements by witnesses and lawyers and printed briefs they have shown that the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific jointly own the Burlington. For many years they have been building up joint rates and through routes designed to give shippers the best possible service by practically joining the facilities of the three systems. For the commission would take away the Burlington and join it to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul would destroy the work of years, it is asserted. In conclusion, the two big railroads flatly tell the commission that unless they can consolidate in a system including the Burlington, they will not consolidate at all.

This case has advanced further than any other but it is regarded as typical of the situation throughout the country. There have been built up solidities among railroad companies which are difficult to sever and still, it seems, or they were not severed, the consolidations would have to be grotesquely gerrymandered.

Every time the commission moves to put into effect the consolidations of the Ripley report there are floods of tears over the proposed separation of railroad families and, what proves more effective, very spirited fighting.

Another case in point may be cited. The Southern Pacific railway for years has had an operating leasehold on the Central Pacific. Not long ago, the supreme court of the United States, looking at the combination in the light of antitrust laws, ordered the lines to separate. Under the Transportation Act they came before the interstate commission to see if they could not do with its permission what the supreme court would not permit under the anti-trust laws.

Their application seemed highly reasonable from many points of view because they had built up joint facilities to take care of the shippers.
The Union Pacific, however, instantly intervened and urged the commission not to permit consolidation of the merger. A Southern Pacific-Central Pacific merger hurt the Union Pacific's business, it was asserted. In the course of the examination it developed that the Union Pacific, itself, would be glad of the opportunity to buy the Central Pacific.

This is another sample of inability to agree on railroad consolidation and the sort of experience is leading the president and other leaders at Washington to feel that there must be legislation dictating compulsory consolidation. If left to decide for themselves how they shall merge or if given the option to come in or stay out at will, the roads will do nothing, according to experience so far. Congress will be asked to pass a law which shall lay down some 20 systems, possibly those named in the Ripley plan, and the companies will be forced to enter these consolidations.

There is such a thing as generosity and there is another of prodigality. One is based on thrift and good business judgment, the other on an impulse which may make a good fellow of a government but leave the family in distress.

It would appear that the debt funding commission is in for a session of a most interesting character and its final decision will be of the gravest consequence if for a moment the people of America are forgotten in an effort to pacify some foreign nation.

Any woman desiring a reputation for being young and beautiful may acquire it by shooting likely to meet the fate of the giant and die in the

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

LINES TO THE BRIDGE CORNER Withhold the inquest when the hand I played, Come not to me with all your counsel good; You who behind my chair, unasked, have stood,
Speak not to me of blunders I have made.

I am a peaceful, law-abiding man.
Long suffering, patient, placid, meek and mild.
I am as gentle as a little child.
The stain of murder never marked my clan.

But when the cards are dealt and I have bid, Alas, not your wisdom after I am through;
I know myself what I have failed to do, I know the faulty reckoning I did.

Try not my soul with counsel that is unasked, Say not to me: "You should have let us speak!" The queen frowned—the bid you would have made!
The staunchest glider can be overtaken.

Sit at the table. Watch us if you will,
But understand your counsel comes too late, Advice unsought for often leads to hate.
Silence is golden! Would you live—keep still!

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY H. MOULTON

HOTEL ETIQUETTE

It's not good form to polish the diamond in your ring or shirt front with a napkin while at dinner. Usage demands that you carry a chamberlain skin for this purpose.
It is not customary to ask the hotel clerk how much money any young gentleman has in his pocket to determine whether he is a good match for your daughter. It is much better to write and ask some of the young man's friends.
While it is permissible to pare the finger nails with a pocket knife, it is not a society dowager. It is much better form to use a nickel-plated nail clipper, which, of course, is the correct implement.

There are nine million automobiles in this country now—and heaven only knows how many taxicabs.

Pennsylvania woman lays claim to the downtown section of Manhattan and says she will sell it for $250,000,000. She ought to be respectable. Only a few years ago Peter Menut bought it from the Indians for a few quarts of beaten.

Cartoons are suggested for the "Congressional Record," but they could hardly make it any funnier than it is now.

The other day we went to an art salon and bought a picture. It was our first adventure in real picture buying, and an extravaganza, to be sure, but we always feel it is just as well to have something to hand down to posterity. Since we have bought the picture, which is that of "The Alps in the Helmet," we have slept very little nights. We have worried and have thought of all the thousands of real art judges who have been stung on old masters. They even say there are large factories in Europe which copy and sell these old masters out in large numbers everyday and send them over here for the rich people. When we bought our picture the dealer assured us, on his honor, that it was a genuine Rembrandt reproduction and we took it for it, but since we have hung the picture some of our artistic friends have had us worried. One eminent critic has assured us that it really is a genuine reproduction, and can only hope he is right. For it was quite a financial undertaking to buy it. And if it is not a genuine reproduction of Rembrandt, but only an imitation reproduction, we are out $8 besides the frame.

A scientist now informs us that, after years of investigation, he has discovered that the early Vikings had tails and used them effectively when engaging the Vikings of their ships and manipulating the sails. The Vikings, he says, were the old world without the scientists. He has discovered that George Washington was a tax-dodger, Patrick Henry was tongue-tied, Cleopatra had a wax nose and store teeth, Marc Anthony didn't try to conquer the world, and Columbus was such a poor athlete that he got lost in the compass, Caesar's wife had a good friend, Balboa never discovered anything but the high seat of living, and Ham was a white man and not a parlor cat.

Having gazed upon a group picture of the conference in session at Lausanne, we no longer wonder why it is that most peace meetings of this kind accomplish nothing.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Jan. 9, 1883.—This morning was the coldest of the season. The thermometer being 26 below below on Main street and 25 below at the Second ward school-house. Another in the same ward registered 29 below.—Officers of the fire department were all re-elected at last night's meeting.
James A. Pathe is president.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Jan. 9, 1893.—State aid for the county insane asylum will stop July first unless that building, now a fire trap, is improved.—The county is now canvassing for 40 samples of wheat and other grains that are to be shown at the World's fair in the official Rock county booth.—Nearly all shops and factories reopened today after being closed since Christmas, following the custom.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Jan. 9, 1903.—Steps toward organizing an English speaking Lutheran church were taken at a meeting at St. Paul's church last night.
It will be known as St. Peter's church and numbers more than 25 chapter members. The Rev.
W. H. Erick talked at the meeting, although another permanent preacher will be obtained.

TEN YEARS AGO

Jan. 9, 1913.—Poultry which has recently been shown at large New York exhibitions is being entered for Janesville's poultry show next week.
A feature of the show will be the imported canaries, two valued at $100 each.—Funeral services for Dr. James Gibson were held this morning, the Rev. Joseph Hazen conducting them.

VALUE OF A GOOD NAME.

A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving a name than silver and gold.—Proverbs 22:1.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

FLEXIBLE COLLOIDION

Colloidion is a preservative, germ killing, disinfectant, ether-proof, alcohol-proof, flexible colloidion contains also Canada turpentine and ester oil to render it more elastic. This may be tinted to resemble the color of the skin by adding a few drops of an ether solution of tumeric or aniline. Flexible col-loidion must be kept tightly corked, for otherwise the ether soon evaporates and leaves a sticky mass. When using it, care should be taken to keep the liquid from contact with the neck of the vial, for it will harden there and prevent the stopper from fitting properly. The skin (freshly, boiled and dried) brush may be used to apply it to the skin, or a toothpick with a wisp of cotton wrapped about its tip, and this should be discarded after use. No such medication should be applied with the stopper or any container permanently attached to the stopper, for this is an unsightly and repulsive surgical point of view, and paves the way for infection or blood poisoning.
Flexible colloidion should be used instead of a court plaster. If the surface is perfectly dry the colloidion will adhere and form what is practically an impervious protective covering. For minor abrasions, scratches or wounds, several layers may be applied successively, each being allowed to dry before the next is applied, or when the lesion is in an area the colloidion may be reinforced with thin wisps or layers of absorbent cotton or single layers of surgical gauze.
Such a dressing is ideal for severely splitting wounds, if applied immediately after swabbing with tincture of iodine.
Flexible colloidion is an excellent protective covering for cracked lips, nipples, finger tips, for hangnails or other raw or ragged edges, provided these are clean and not already infected and inflamed. It is also a good application for softening and removing callouses about the soles of the feet. The same "corn cure" will instantly remove the ideal for severely measles should such a remedy be applied to a lesion, which is different from a wart as paronychia is from that tired feeling.
As a protective for herpes ("cold sores") on the lip flexible colloidion is excellent, if the spot is first carefully dried and skilfully coated with the moisture proof inconspicuous dressing. It is also a comfortable dressing for the very painful herpes zoster ("shingles") upon any part of the skin if applied before the lesions surround. Here the entire involved area of skin should be covered with a coating of colloidion and when dry a thin padding of cotton or wool and a snug bandage.

Daily painting of the fingernails with flexible colloidion containing 20 grains of powdered ipecac to the ounce has apparently taken the nail biting habit in some cases, though ipecac is likely to excite an eruption on the skin of the fingers.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Seventh Problem.
I received the Brady symphony and have dutifully and gladly performed the exercises with the exception of No. 7. That I would do, too, if I understood just how to begin. How can I touch the floor with my feet? And while my hands are clasped behind my neck? (Upland Road.) Answer.—From your struggle with the seventh problem I suspect you have the first or old Brady symphony.
The second Brady symphony or New symphony has no seven problem, being pure harmony without a false note from strenuous start to ending.

A Regular Canibal.
I am a lover of raw meat, raw oysters, raw eggs, raw fish, etc. I know they are injurious to my health. I would like to have your advice. (E. S.) Answer.—I am a raw-shorn or other hog meat exposes you to trichinosis (a parasite infestation); eating raw fish exposes you to the risk of tape-worm infestation. Raw oysters are all right. Raw eggs are all right.
Raw pork, ham or beef is all right if there is any certainty that the carcasses have no parasitic larvae. The United States agricultural department recently issued a warning to the public to cook all hog meat thoroughly.
Numerous cases of trichinosis appearing in finger nails. A friend advises me to take a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda in a glass of water daily. I have been told this might injure the lining of my stomach.
Answer.—Usually white specks in the fingernails are caused by slight injuries of the nails, as in manicuring, etc. The best remedy is to keep the hands in plaster casts or keeping them in your pockets for about six months, when they will have grown out. This is about the only serious affliction which one can outgrow.

Eventually she becomes engaged to him. Dora is broken hearted.

She had been a friend with Gladys Gates when that rather exotic lady was visiting in town, but broken of which Mrs. Gates returns to New York. Gladys and Morton are married.

THE LETTER

Chapter 40.

In due time the letter came in Gloria's large, scrawly hand.

"This is being written while I sit on the edge of my child's bed and fill his mouth full of thermometers and tie his poor neck up in smelly flannels. I began, 'Frankie, I had to tell you about the other ailments, poor youngster, but the doctor says he'll be all right in a few days. Meantime I've lost a thousand dollar order to do over a year in order to hold his hand—piece of bad luck which amuses me, for it would so please our Norris City friends."

"Darling child you must come to me both need you. Being the mother of an ailing child and a busy woman sharp enough to support that child, are two occupations that do not mix, if one does justice to either. I'm half dead myself too—and not a competent nursekeeper at all this town. Darling, I'd love to have you come just to keep an eye on Frankie the rest of this winter. I'll have a housekeeper installed when you arrive, so the only work will be the child."

"I'll tuck $50 in here in a postal order that will pay your fare."

"Directions about trains followed. Then—

"Wire me the time you arrive and I'll meet you. Only come at once. I'm sure the farmhand dispense with you, and I'm certain you can persuade your aunt to wait with you for a while. Don't be alarmed about what I say as to looking after Frankie. He won't need much of that. I only want someone here to keep an eye on things and to have any work, it will be a rest for you and we'll visit the entire winter."

"Put like this, the whole thing sounded most alluring. Besides, there was postal order to get money than Dora had possessed for some time. There was no excuse—and she wanted to go."

"It's my chance!" she told her father. "I've waiting to get away—perhaps when she doesn't."

WITCH CHARM AND PIRATE LOOT

FOR LITTLE FRIENDLY FOLKS WHO LIKE ADVENTURES

Four the brigade advanced and was immediately cut off from the brigade post of command. But the general passed up and down, waiting for word from the troops. But no messages came through and he could see nothing but a curtain of smoke. The smoke clouds the enemy was floating across the line.

At last the staff having exhausted itself with efforts to calm their chief, there suddenly appeared out of the cloud of smoke a carrier pigeon. It circled a few times and then alighted. The general cried: "Thank God! News of the brigade!"

Lieutenant Smith, aide to the general, rushed over to the pigeon, unfurled the message and hastily brought it to the general, who opened it with trembling fingers. This is what he read: "Am tired of carrying this blinking bird around—Judge."

"I didn't really mean that you are a beast," said the prima donna, when the row was over. "You must make allowances for my artistic temperament."

"I do," said her manager bitterly, "but it's there were any justice in this world I'd make deductions for it." Birmingham Age-Herald.
